The Melting Snowman Left Right Christmas Story

LEFTY LEFT was a jolly snowman with a corncob pipe, a button nose, and coal eyes. The kids who made him found a magical silk hat that brought LEFTY LEFT to life RIGHT in front of their eyes. The hat belonged to Professor WRIGHT. Knowing that he would melt RIGHT away because of the heat, Frosty invited the children to play with him. They had a lot of fun running RIGHT and LEFT.

While on the train, LEFTY LEFT noticed Karen was getting cold, so RIGHT then they got off the train. Twisted RIGHT Ear, Professor WRIGHT's rabbit, said that Santa Claus could help them. The forest animals built a fire to keep Karen warm, but Professor WRIGHT arrived and put out the fire. Professor WRIGHT, LEFTY LEFT , and Karen ran away and found a greenhouse to hide in. Professor WRIGHT locked them inside.

Twisted RIGHT Ear went to get Santa Claus, but it seemed too late as LEFTY LEFT had melted. Santa explained that LEFTY LEFT was made of Christmas snow and could not melt away completely. Suddenly, a cold wind blew through the greenhouse, and LEFTY LEFT came back to life.
